

Security tab missing in windows xp professional

Saturday, 31 October 2009

Last Updated Sunday, 01 November 2009

In Windows XP home and Windows XP professional the folder security tab is disabled by default.

In order to enable it open a windows explorer session go into tools / folder options / view and in the advances panel there is an option to " use simple file shaing (recommended)" unclick that and hey presto the security tab is back.